

A high-tech degree at the University of New Mexico-Los Alamos was made possible by a seven-year, $700,000 grant from LANL. To meet the demand for skilled technicians, the university will develop a new Associate of Applied Science in Applied Technologies degree.

UNM-LA high-tech degree sponsored by LANL to help alleviate labor shortfall